

National Allergy Strategy Project Manager

The BSACI wish to appoint a Project Manager to develop a UK National Allergy Strategy. Collaborating primarily with the core National Allergy Strategy Group members as well as with a wide range of stakeholders the postholder will coordinate all aspects of this important project with oversight from the NASG and guidance from the Allergy Expert Advisory Group jointly chaired by Professor Adam Fox (NASG) and Lee McGill (Head of Strategy & Policy, Medicine Supply Branch at Department of Health and Social Care).

Overview

Working with NASG core members, the postholder will identify additional key stakeholders who will be able to agree upon the main principles, goals and mission of the national allergy strategy. The postholder will then establish and coordinate the work of a number of working groups who will produce key objectives in each of the designated areas agreed upon. This will involve drafting plans using evidence-based data, and identifying the most urgent issues and considering short, medium and long-term aims.

Our ambition is to develop a strategy within 12 months. The post is therefore for a period of one year only with a remuneration of £39,000 for 2.5 days a week (17.5 hours). (Full time equivalent £78,000). The postholder can either work under BSACI employment contract or as self-employed consultant.

The postholder will have strong leadership skills and proven experience working at a senior level, ideally in allergy/immunology. They will possess excellent interpersonal and organizational skills as well as experience in developing strategy.
